SEVEN-YEAR OLD CHILD LOST IN PARK RESERVE SUNDAY

Found Tuesday After 42 Hours Wandering

Whole Countryside Joins In Search

BOY IN HOSPITAL BUT SUFF- ERED NO ILL EFFECTS

Word was brought to town early on Monday morning last that assistance was sought from Wainwright to trace the whereabouts of a seven-year old child, who had been lost somewhere on the new National Park reserve some 20 miles south-east of town.

Lost somewhere on the National Buffalo Park reserve some 20 miles south-east of town.

The youngster, who was one of a family of eight children was little Wesley, and from information to hand it seems that he left the farm home, situated on 13-42-04 about one mile from the park fence, at around two o'clock on Sunday afternoon alone to gather berries. He was seen by a lady by the name of Lerocque (a neighbor) some time in the afternoon near four o'clock about 2 miles from his home, and although then advised to go back he said he knew his way, and was going to pick more berries. From that time the little fellow seems to have wandered away east into the sand dunes, and as he did not turn up at home the parents became worried about him by six o'clock, and notified neighbors of his being missing. The police were then given the information that the boy was missing and several parties were out that night searching for the child.

On Monday organized search parties under the guidance of Corp. Collett, and Const. Patterson, R.C.M.P. of Wainwright, with assistance of the Hardisty police, and very soon some 300 searchers were scouring the sand dunes and bluffs over a wide area. This was kept up all day and into the night but without results, among the searchers being a large number of the staff from the Buffalo Park, who were fairly familiar with the rough terrain into which the little fellow had wandered, and also the Hilsen Creek district, which runs through it.

After wandering around (possibly in circles) for some 42 hours including two nights spent alone in the wilds, a party of searchers coming west from the Doley district, told the boy about eight o'clock on Tuesday morning. He seemed none (Continued on Page Four)

Vaudeville Show is Picturized at Elite

Smartly directed, well acted, fast moving in action and dialogue, "Annie Oakley" which comes to the Elite at the week-end, contains plenty that is new and different to please audiences.

Fundamentally, the show is a dramatic romance. Show histories in many of its phases, this quality, while interesting and poignant, is secondary to the love story, which has a great deal of human character in it.

As the show opens, the time coinciding with Annie Oakley's career, Toby Taylor, crack marksman, is touring the sticks with a vaudeville show. Bored with Taylor's boasting, MacIvor bets that he can produce a better shot. When Annie arrives in answer to his desperate call he is just as amazed as Taylor. But although Annie proves all that MacIvor hoped, she permits her infatuation for Taylor, whose poster pictures she has long admired, to let him win the shoot. The match results in their both being signed for the show.

With romantic complications the show moves off on its tour, but an accident to Taylor ends his shooting career and he is let out.

The show moves on to Europe with broken-hearted Annie, through many triumphs that fail to make her forget her love for Taylor. When they arrive back in America, she begins her search for the one she loves, and she finds him.

The brief sketch does not by any means include any of the color that backgrounds the action. "Annie Oakley" is a natural and human picture that the whole family will enjoy. Showing on Friday and Saturday, August 21-22.

Mr. G. Kenny is now the owner of a new Chevrolet.

American Heiress in Dramatic Romance

Coming to the Elite theatre next Monday and Tuesday is a picture that in a vivid way parallels the actual life experiences of an American millionaire. To make a long story short, the picture is a dramatic romance, the story of a girl who is the daughter of a millionaire, who is engaged to a young man who is a gambler, and who is a gambler.

Essentially it is the story of a girl who is the daughter of a millionaire, who is engaged to a young man who is a gambler, and who is a gambler. The girl is the daughter of a millionaire, who is engaged to a young man who is a gambler, and who is a gambler.

The story of "Champagne Charlie" is an original by Gene Markey with Helen Wood and Paul Cavanagh featured in the leading roles.

Wain. Oil Area Being Mapped

Continuing its work that was commenced last year, the Geological Survey, Department of Mines, Oil and Gas, is mapping two large sections of Alberta's 12,000-square mile area in the east-central portion of the province and an 8,000-square mile area in the east-central portion of the province and an 8,000-square mile area in the east-central portion of the province.

Two projects are underway in the east-central area. In the eastern portion, which extends from Vegreville to the Alberta-Saskatchewan boundary, G. S. Hume is continuing an examination of the Battle River basin, northeast of Wainwright.

Dr. Hume's work in the area last year led to the discovery of this structure, a large section of which is being prospected by interests acting upon recommendations made in his preliminary report. Other sections of the large area are being examined also, with a view to outlining any favourable structures that may exist, and in an investigation of the ground water resources.

On completion of the work, Dr. Hume will map the Battle River area. The adjoining western portion of the east-central area extends from the south of Red Deer northwards beyond Edmonton, and is being mapped by R. L. Rutherford, with special reference to the oil and gas possibilities. Last year's work in the area revealed the presence of structures favourable to the accumulation of oil and gas.

In southeastern Alberta a party headed by R. T. D. Wickenden is examining the surface geology and the ground water possibilities in a 5,000-square mile portion of the drought belt. This work will be valuable in the study of soils by agriculturists, and will afford useful information to ranchers and drillers. Another party under L. S. Russell is making a study of the economic resources of the area, and also of the adjoining 3,000-square mile area on the west. Particular attention is being given to the oil and gas possibilities, and to artesian sources of water supply.

Len. Minter Stays Fire at B. McNerns

Thanks to the fact that a fire at his neighbors was seen by Len. Minter last week, what might have been a serious affair was stopped in good time.

It seems that from some unaccountable cause, a fire started in the farm yard at Bruce McNerns during his absence from home. It burned the corral fence and was gaining headway toward the barn when noticed by Mr. Minter, a neighbor. He immediately rushed over and was able to extinguish the blaze without any serious loss of property.

1936 WORST DROUGHT YEAR OF PRAIRIES

Dr. E. S. Archibald, Government Director of Experimental Farms, thinks the wheat crop in Western Canada will be around 250 million bushels this year, the smallest wheat crop in twelve years. He said the drought this year was the worst in the history of the prairies and conditions as a result of the bad weather constituted a major disaster.

The long term average wheat crop of the west is around 330 million bushels. The largest wheat crop was in 1928 when over 550 million bushels were produced and $400,000,000 worth of wheat marketed. Since 1921 prairie wheat yields and carryovers are as follows:

Year	Wheat Yields	Carryovers
1931	321,320,000	1,087,700
1932	443,001,000	1,377,300
1933	297,720,000	219,420,000
1934	283,800,000	203,770,000
1935	258,000,000	203,000,000

Taking 'Chance' From Oil Well Explorations

The past week has seen a large gang of men under the direction of Engineer Bert Slipper, slipping in and out of town with some apparently weirdly equipped cars and trucks.

These are in the employ of the Alberta Gas Explorations Co., and they are making a complete survey of the oil and gas possibilities of the Wainwright and adjacent fields.

Included in the equipment used is a seismograph machine, this being operated by experts from the States. The way the work is carried on consists of drilling a test hole some 40 feet in depth into which a stick of dynamite is lowered. The charge is then electrically fired and the vibrations from the resultant explosion gives the data of underground formations encountered on the several instruments in use; thus proving the underlying strata of the ground being tested.

It is claimed that the method in use gives correct data in some 80 per cent of the tests as after-drilling has proved, thus taking considerable of the "chance" out of the oil-drilling business. This method is being used now by nearly all the large companies.

Duck Shoot Season Two Weeks Shorter

Reduction of bag limits and shortening by two weeks over previous years of the Northern Alberta duck shooting season, are salient features of amendments to the provincial game regulations, issued on Saturday by J. A. Hutchinson, game commissioner. It is stipulated that bag limits of ducks and geese are reduced in line with recent regulations formulated by the Dominion government under provisions of the Migratory Birds Protection Act.

The regulations provide for a closed season on prairie chicken as well as pheasants and grouse. Hungarian partridge can be shot south of the North Saskatchewan river between Oct. 1 and Nov. 20, whereas last year the season opened on Sept. 16.

North of the Clearwater and Athabasca rivers the duck and geese hunting season will open Sept. 1 and close Oct. 31, instead of closing on Nov. 14, as it did last year. South of these two streams the ducks and geese can be shot between Sept. 15 and Nov. 14. Mountain sheep and goats can be shot in September and October as last year, while deer, moose and caribou can be shot from Nov. 2 to Dec. 14, except in close areas by special license. The bag limit for geese is five a day, as against 10 last year and 25 for the season.

Bag limits for ducks has been set at 12 a day, a reduction of three from last year and 100 for the season. Hungarian partridge can be shot to the extent of 15 a day and 200 for the season to the south of the North Saskatchewan river.

A quiet little wedding took place on Thursday afternoon last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Dickens, when the Rev. T. E. Armstrong, pastor of Wainwright United church joined in wedlock Miss Annie Skorevko to Mr. Ashton Reginald Golding both of Wainwright.

The bride's sister Helen acted as bridesmaid, while the groom was supported by his brother Allen. Following a short honeymoon the happy couple will reside on the groom's farm north of town.

SOCIAL CREDIT GROUP HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC

Favored with an ideal day, the Wainwright Social Credit Group's annual sports day and picnic was a decided success, and hundreds of people from all over the district were present to enjoy the attractions.

The various competitive events run off, including foot, bicycle and horse racing, were all well contested. The stout men and women, however, seemed to be in a minority for they failed to show up for their scheduled race.

The girls' softball team from Grangeville proved altogether too strong for any of the opposition in their class and they thoroughly trimmed a pick-up team of girls from town. They also took a team of young boys from town to camp by a somewhat one-sided score.

The boys' intermediate hardball team from town did very well in their first game with Edgerton, but got badly in the hole when they came up against the intermediate team from Athabasca.

The boxing exhibition proved quite an attraction, the main event being between young Beazley and Gordon Grayson, in which the latter got the decision.

After an unavoidable delay, the speakers of the day, Mrs. Gustick, M.L.A. of Calgary, and Hon. E. C. Manning, addressed the gathering re Social Credit legislation. Mr. Fair, M.P., and Mr. Mason, M.L.A., also spoke very fittingly, urging the people to stand behind the premier in his policy of setting up dividends.

The loud speaker outfit was on hand throughout the day, announcing the winners in the various competitions and also in assisting the crowd to hear the speakers.

The refreshment booth, under the capable management of H. E. Macdonald and his lady helpers, did a rushing business till after dark, and ice cream and hot dogs were disposed of in merry style.

The automobile traffic was smoothly handled by Messrs. F. Ganderton and F. Sheffield, and baseball and football games were under the direction of Messrs. E. Ganderton and H. Lilly.

The day closed with the singing of "God save the King," after which a large crowd wended their way to town to take in the dances. The Social Credit orchestra, in the Elite theatre supplied snappy music for the younger crowd, while an overflow bunch of dancers was accommodated in the Masonic hall.

Permits Needed to Burn Straw

In view of the serious feed shortage in this province, permits to burn straw stacks must be obtained from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police or other authorities in the district. Hon. W. N. Chant, minister of agriculture, states.

An Order-in-Council necessitating obtaining a permit has been passed. The straw stacks have been burned in some of the southern irrigation districts.

WEDDING BELLS

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday afternoon last when Miss Helen Lens, daughter of Mrs. Jessie Ballentine of Fabian, became the bride of Mr. George Hanson Taylor, eldest son of Mr. H. Taylor of Fabian, at the home of Mrs. Ballentine and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ballentine.

The bride was prettily attired in white silk net and carried a bouquet of pink and white roses. She was attended by Miss Doris Gray, who wore a dress of pink silk organdie and carried a bouquet of pink and white roses. The groom was supported by his brother Mr. Gerald Taylor.

Following the ceremony a sumptuous dinner was served by Mrs. Jack Ballentine. The table, very prettily arranged, was adorned with sweet peas and a handsome three-tiered wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor left for a short honeymoon at Pigeon Lake, after which they will reside at Kin-sela where Mr. Taylor teaches high school.

REGISTER FOR SO-CRED. DIVIDENDS

Arrangements were completed last week for the registration in the Wainwright constituency for the proposed Social Credit dividends.

The registration was held yesterday (Tuesday) in the Masonic hall where Messrs. B. Thompson, E. Ganderton and W. Wheaton were busy as registrars giving out the necessary forms for the purpose to all and sundry.

Those who obtained forms must take them home to fill in, and return the same unopened to the same registrars on Friday next, when they will sign them in front of, and have them witnessed by the registrar.

In special cases some of these forms may have to go to Edmonton, and in the case of eligible persons having moved from the province an extension of time has been arranged for.

Canadian Poultry at World's Congress

Cabled advice from officials of the Dominion Department of Agriculture who attended the World's Poultry Congress, which was held at Leipzig, Germany, from July 24 to August 2, state that the Canadian exhibit made a decidedly favourable impression, not only on the poultry experts from the 60 nations officially represented at the Congress, but on the many thousands of visitors.

The Canadian exhibit was designed and assembled in Ottawa by the Exhibition Division of the Publicity and Extension Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, and arrived at Leipzig in perfect condition. It was erected and complete in every detail when the Congress was formally opened.

A feature of the exhibit was a display of 60 birds drawn from all parts of Canada. The exhibit and the birds at Leipzig have, as at former World's Poultry Congresses held at Barcelona, Ottawa, London and Rome, attracted very wide attention. The vitality and liveliness of the Canadian birds has again been a subject of general comment by delegates and visitors alike in Leipzig.

National Park Gets Many Registrations

As an instance of the attractions of the National Buffalo Park here proving appealing to a large number of tourists, it is only necessary to note the registration book at the Wainwright gate during the past few weeks.

The visitors are indeed from "all over the place" as one page alone of the book well proves. In addition to the large numbers of people from town and the surrounding districts who find the Mott Lake picnic grounds enjoyable and the bathing house and beach appealing, one day last week and found the following registered at the park gate: Mr. and Mrs. G. McConkey, Tulsa, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Hunter, Neilburg, Sask.; Geo. Lippert and family, Carter, Mont.; Mr. and Mrs. G. Stuckey, Detroit, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Babcock, Duluth, Minn.; Ed. Nelson, Clyde N. Dak.; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Street, Salmon Arm, B.C.; Verley E. Alexander, Leicester, N. Carolina; etc.

LIGHTNING STRIKES MAN ON FARM

While closing one of the gates on his father's farm north of town on Thursday evening last, when the electric storm which visited this district, Mr. Tom Rattray was the victim of one of nature's freaks.

He was holding the wire of the gate when the lightning flashed, and received such a shock as caused him to become unconscious for several minutes. His brothers who saw the occurrence carried him at once into the house where restoratives were applied, and he was fully recovered a few hours later. Happily no after effects were suffered by the badly-scared victim of the freak.

Alberta Provincial Crop Report No. 6

(Issued by the Alta. Dept. of Agriculture, Edmonton.)

Harvest is general in southern and central districts and wheat cutting has commenced in northern areas and the Peace River district.

In the southern and east-central portions of the Province no material change has occurred in the general crop situation. Conditions have continued to be extremely dry, the feed shortage becoming more acute as the season advances. Wheat yields in the dry area vary widely. The crop is a total failure in the more distressed districts but yields of from 5 to 15 bushels are reported from many points, especially in the more western sections. Coarse grain yields in the south will be exceedingly low and many fields have already been cut for green feed. Shortage of water is reported in the southern irrigation districts and even crops under irrigation have suffered to some small extent.

From the Olds district north to the Edmonton zone, crops have had some benefit from scattered showers and on the whole are somewhat more promising than formerly anticipated. As this report goes to press rain is general in the Edmonton district and good showers are reported south to Calgary. Yields throughout this territory will range from light to average, both for wheat and coarse grains, depending upon prevalence of showers of the past month. Severe hail damage was recently suffered in the Olds, Didsbury area, also from Lacombe west to Rimbey, with lesser damage reported at other scattered points.

Conditions in the Peace River District continue to be very favourable. Harvesting of a good average crop is just getting nicely under way.

Regulations Re Trucks Carrying Passengers

There appears to have been considerable confusion regarding the recent regulations regarding the carrying of passengers in trucks. Section 30 of the Public Service Vehicles Act passed at the 1936 session of the Alberta Legislature provides: "With the exception of owners and bona fide employees, no person shall be carried on trucks operated as public service or commercial vehicles unless with the authority of the board."

A truck owned by a farmer and used solely in connection with his farming operations is excepted and is not classed as a commercial vehicle while so used.

The question has arisen as to whether a farmer can carry passengers in his truck for pleasure purposes. This question has been referred to the Attorney-General's department who have expressed the opinion that when a class D truck is used for the purpose of carrying passengers it is being used for purposes other than farming and for the time being becomes a commercial vehicle, and would be guilty of an infraction of Section 30 of the Public Service Vehicles Act.

Scrip Won't Pay Varsity Tuition

Stamped scrip is not being accepted by the University of Alberta in payment of accounts, it was learned Saturday from an official. It was stated that the institution had no way of handling the certificates if they were accepted.

At the University hospital, it was learned yet there will be no decision as to whether it will be accepted or not before a board meeting is held next month.

The government, according to recent announcements, will not accept its scrip for school books, clothes, or at liquor stores.

THE BOARD SEES

The regular meeting of the board of the Wainwright municipal district was held on Saturday August 8th when all members were present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were adopted on a motion by Trustee Fuller.

Moved by Trustee Santee—that the chairman and secretary be authorized to borrow from the bank up to $1000 if necessary for current expenses—Carried.

Moved by Trustee Fuller—that the quotations on pressure tanks be tabled—Carried.

Trustee Fuller reported that the new partition had been installed in the new parlor as ordered and the report was accepted on motion of Trustee Santee.

Moved by Trustee Fuller—that letting of the contract for painting be tabled till the next meeting—Carried.

Moved by Trustee Gardiner—that each member of the hospital board endeavor to get the co-operation of the council of the contributing area he represents with a view to obtaining signatures for a petition asking that action be taken so that ratepayers receive free hospitalization—Carried.

Moved by Trustee Santee—that signs be posted at the hospital gates warning all visitors that vehicles must be parked outside the fence in order that the driveway may be free of congestion—Carried.

Moved by Trustee Santee—that a five-foot gravel walk be made from the street to the hospital, directly south from the front door, and that the gravel walk be extended east from the front gate to connect with the cinder walk—Carried.

The matron's report for the month of July which was accepted on a motion by Trustee Gould, was as follows:

Female patients admitted	42
Female patients discharged	25
Male patients admitted	33
Male patients discharged	34
Patients still in hospital	18
Maternity cases	5
Infants born	5
Medical cases	30
Surgical cases	22
Major operations	11
Minor operations	18
Hospital days	578

Moved by Trustee Beaudette—that a cheque for $5.00 be issued to J. Admire for watching delirious patient—Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

LIBERAL PARTY FAILS AFTER FORTY YEARS

After having been in power for the past forty years the old-line Liberal party went down to defeat in the provincial elections in Quebec as it was last when the new Union Nationale gained 76 seats out of a total of 90 in the legislature.

Premier Godbout lost out in his own riding, and Premier-elect Duplessis is expected to take over the reins of office late this week.

Experimental Farms News

WEED IMPURITIES SPILL SEED CROP

The matter of seed crop selection is now doubtless engaging the attention of farmers who hope to obtain a cash return from seed production. Certain crops have, of course, been planned and needed for this purpose. These will include cereal crops principally. Selection of seed crops made at about this time will include such kinds as timothy, red clover, alfalfa, sweet clover and other forage crops. If consideration is being given to the savings of any of these crops for seed, certain factors should be taken into account. Perhaps the first and most important of these is the quality of the seed likely to be produced as determined by freedom from weed seed impurities.

In order to obtain the greatest return from seed production, it is important that the quality of the seed should be the highest obtainable. Too often seed production proves unprofitable, the reason being that the crop was either unsuitable or was not properly prepared for seed production. The seeds of certain weeds are so difficult to separate from grass and clover seeds that the removal of the weeds themselves from the seed crop, by roguing or hand pulling, is the only means of dealing with them successfully. This may be done profitably some times, but not always. Other seeds are not only difficult of separation but are of the noxious class and are, therefore, objectionable in seed of the highest grade. Ox-eye daisy is one of these, and timothy in which this seed is present should not be saved for seed. Bladder campion, white cockle, couch grass, wild mustard, nightflowering catchfly, false flax, ribgrass and wild carrot are also of this class and therefore seed crops of alfalfa, alfalfa, red clover and sweet clover containing these weeds cannot be expected to give profitable returns. In the Dominion Department of Agriculture bulletin "Weeds and Weed Seeds" full information is given on seed cleaning.

ANALYSIS IS BASIS OF FERTILIZER VALUE

Despite any selling talk to the contrary, the main basis of value of a commercial fertilizer is its analysis in plant food, that is its nitrogen, phosphoric acid or potash content.

NICKEL PRODUCTION UP TO NEW CANADIAN RECORD

TORONTO.—Beating all past records, Canadian nickel production advanced to 68,700,000 pounds in the first five months of the present year, compared with 52,000,000 pounds in the same months of 1935. In the five months nickel exports were valued at $4,000,000.

Canada produces more than 80 per cent of the world's supply of nickel, and most of it comes from the Sudbury, Ontario, area. There the International Nickel Company, which in 1929 completed a development programme that cost $10,000,000, this year is spending $25,000,000 on new smelters, new shafts, on expansion generally.

From 830,000 pounds in 1889 the production of nickel in Canada mounted steadily to a war-time peak of 92,000,000 in 1918. Production in 1922 had fallen off to 17,000,000 pounds but it recovered quickly and in 1929 a total of 110,000,000 pounds set a new record. The depression brought another serious slump, but since 1932 the industry has shown a remarkable recovery. In 1934 the total was 128 millions, last year 138 millions, and this year it is almost certain another new high will be attained.

HOME HINTS

When making French dressing put the ingredients in a small, clean jar and shake it vigorously. You will find this much easier than stirring the dressing with a fork.

When a recipe calls for macaroni and there are no more on hand, take a cup of dried bread crumbs, one-half cup sugar and two teaspoons almond flavoring, mix together and put in the oven to get very brown.

Use two spoons for turning a roast. A fork pierces the surface and allows the juice to escape.

Lemon slices cut thin and sprinkled with chopped parsley, served alternately with the plain lemon slice, add much to the attractiveness of a fish salad.

Beat eggs only slightly when used in custards, puddings, sauces, etc. Beat well when used to make food light, as in sponge cakes, puffy omelets, etc.

Hot milk added a little at a time when mashing potatoes will make them light and fluffy. Heat but do not boil the milk.

Add a tablespoon of cream to roast beef or lamb gravy. It makes it a delicious brown.

Sand dressing made from fruit juices and mixed with chopped, aged or preserved fruits makes delicious fillings for sweet sandwiches.

To remove lime which accumulates on the inside of a tea kettle boil a strong solution of vinegar inside of the kettle, then rinse thoroughly.

"NOBODY READS THE PAPER"

"Nobody reads the paper," so why advertise?" say some merchants. Yet advertising experts of national concern, men who demand—and get—vested yearly give a big share of their advertising appropriation to weekly papers.

"Nobody reads the paper," yet if the editor gets the mumps, the linotype breaks down or anything else happens to delay the paper, the postoffice and editor are swamped with calls from indignant subscribers.

"Nobody reads the paper," but let the editor mis-spell one name in an obscure item buried at the bottom of an inside page and 20 readers will "find" him about it before the paper has been out two hours.

"Nobody reads the paper." Then why do the local publicity hounds be-devil the editor for favorable notices? And why are politicians so eager for the support of the paper?

"Nobody reads the paper." Yet the delinquent subscriber squawks to high heaven when his subscription is stopped.

"Nobody reads the paper." Then why in the name of common sense is a man so anxious to keep his misdeeds from being published.—Ex.

"Avenue Kipling" is the title to be given shortly to a street in Ypres in memory of Rudyard Kipling. No one knows the age limits of tortises or tortoises.

Washington Market, a famous market in New York City, has started a consumers' institute to help housewives in selecting meats, poultry and fish. Miss Laura A. Cooperation with this new venture is the Department of Markets of which Miss Frances Gannon is a deputy commissioner.

The first and, so far as I know, the only woman just of Texas, Judge Sarah T. Hughes, has presided at nearly one thousand trials. Many of the cases that come before her are human interest ones, such as divorces and the decision involving the disposal of the children of the divorced parents. Judge Hughes is opposed to alimony in principle, but in most cases none is asked because Texas law does not provide for granting alimony after the divorce is obtained. Personally, Judge Hughes is not in favor of alimony where the woman is capable of supporting herself.

NO REASON TO FEAR WORK

Regular, legitimate toil never harmed any one. We often hear of "overwork" being a cause of break-down mentally and physically; but, when we look carefully into the matter, we find the victim, long prior to his invalidism, wrecked the machinery of his body by improper feeding, irregular sleep, and unsympathetic exercise. Can you imagine a tubby, switch-chair, club-ridden gourmand, getting exercise from a ride in an upholstered automobile, and three hours a week devoted to panting around a fancy golf course, where he does his heavy-ballasted carcass more harm than good? Wouldn't you think he is about fifteen or more years too late with his "exercise"? There is no hope of long life for that sort of man—absolutely none! He is in danger every moment he exists.

One thing our city business men should remember: There is a vast difference between "good business" and right living. My idea is, there is nothing that pays quite so well as a rigorous adherence to proper care of the body. It is a shame that we violate every law of diet, sleep, and exercise—disregard the blame on overwork. Does Providence remove the man that commits suicide?

I knew a man who worked in a stone-quarry on his farm until he was nearly eighty. "A freak," you say. No, you argue the freak! This man ate regularly; when tired, he rested. He had his full allotment of fresh air; he slept eight hours every night; he ate just what he wanted and no more. He died at eighty-two—and he didn't die of overwork. His was a perfectly natural death.

Designed in sizes: 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, and 38. Size 14 requires 4 1/2 yards of 35 inch material. With short sleeves, 3 1/2 yards.

SMART VESTEE FROCK

Pattern 8700: The mass who dons this piquant model will be justly proud of her selection. Perhaps the pleated vestee front is the most noteworthy contribution to the lovely creation.

A yoke gathered back which appeals so strongly to girls of this age is well used here. The center back seam ends in the sporty kick pleat. The same is true of the front. A belt with a bit of contrasting color further adds charm to this delightful pattern. Short or long sleeves the latter full, though the elbows are held in at the wrist by a close fitting band. A small bow tie cleverly worn at the collar and nicely offsets the vertical lines of notches and pleats in the vestee. Two small breast pockets with stitching complete the balance.

ARE TENANTS

TAXPAYERS?

A recent appeal of the Ontario

Association of Rural Municipalities to municipal officers and taxpayers of all Ontario towns and villages to attend a conference with a view to discussing new means of levying taxes is both amusing and important, and the present situation.

It is true that one of the most serious handicaps facing municipal councils today is the method of levying taxes to meet the increasing demands for public and social services. In this matter, there has been practically no change during the last decade, while, on the other hand, new services had to be created, such as relief to the unemployed, hospitalization of indigents, mothers' allowances, old age pension, all of which were vital and necessary advances. The municipality's share for all these expenditures is levied mostly on real estate and business enterprises.

It is with a view to seeking new sources of income that the conference is being called. Where they can find them or how the present method can be altered is being the imagination of the writer but no doubt some cute and original ideas will be advanced. In any event it will be a holiday for those attending and as such of that much benefit to the participants.

It is with the premise on which the appeal is based that our quarrel lies.

The manifesto reads: "In nearly every town and village from 25 to 40 per cent of the citizens manage to escape the tax collector, for the good reason that their names do not appear on the assessment roll as owners of real estate. These citizens have the benefit of all the public services, and enjoy all the privileges accorded to, and maintained by their tax-burdened fellowmen. The tragic aspect of the situation, is that these tax-dodgers, as a rule, live a more luxurious life, and have larger annual revenues than their less fortunate fellow citizens, whose names appear on the roll, as owners of real estate. Is it not high time that the Assessment Act be overhauled?

Now such an argument is as fallacious as it is childish and we have little respect for the minds that devised such propaganda. As an owner of real estate and as a taxpayer

I, as a tenant, through their landlords, bear just as fair a portion of municipal taxes as do taxpayers.

As to services, such as water and light, they pay in the same degree as ratepayers. As to the matter of having larger incomes, this is surely more due to age, enterprise and business ability than to any link between their standing as taxpayers

All in all it is an argument that may be reduced to the point of absurdity, except for the one fact that a tenant's name does not appear on the tax roll.

It has been truly said by a politician that the ordinary loaf of bread contains some 200 to 300 separate tax items both direct and indirect, and this is probably as true of all commodities and services, yet

the average tenant seldom quarrels about the high-tax price he pays for a loaf of bread or a quart of milk or a gallon of water. There are many ways in which taxes are hidden and the Ontario Association of Rural Municipalities might do well to enquire into these matters and broaden their outlook on life. No one expects, or asks them to be "their brothers' keepers", in fact some of the brothers might starve for all the interest shown by some at the heart of such associations, but at least they might approach their own problems with a more open mind and a little more studied investigation.

The tenant is just as important a taxpayer as are ratepayers, and we wonder what ratepayers who oppose this idea might say if all tenants, through some unthinkable miracle, should suddenly decide to build, or have built for them, homes of their own, thus leaving the 20 to 40 per cent of property now occupied by them vacant and idle investments?

One must speculate to accumulate, but it is difficult these days to accumulate enough to speculate.

GRADES ARE GOOD;

GRAIN COMING IN NOW

During the past few days quite a lot of grain has come in to the local elevators, although the rains of the week-end have held up threshing on many farms.

From information given us, the grain which has been offered is a real good sample, and grades run from No. 1 to No. 3. Yields are proving deceptive, for in some cases over 20 bushels per acre has been harvested; although in a few instances there has been no return whatever, and reliance must be placed on the later grains.

The wheat being brought in covers

Marquis, Reward, Red Bobs, and Garnet strains and prices are ruling high for all returns.

SEVEN-YEAR OLD CHILD LOST

IN PARK RESERVE SUNDAY

The seven-year-old child, who was still carrying his little pail half filled with Saskatoon berries and choke cherries (from which he no doubt satisfied his hunger at periods, travelling in a south-easterly direction, and away from his home. He said in his childish way that "he was very tired but wanted to get home as he had been walking all night."

The main body of searchers was gradually then notified that the wanderer had been found and the frantic parents given the information that he was safe. He must have travelled some 15 or 20 miles in his wanderings, and although he was brought in to Wainwright hospital

later on Tuesday for examination, seems to be bright and cheerful

after such an adventure.

During the search, sympathizers from the village of Czar kept the searchers supplied as far as possible with food and hot coffee throughout Monday night. During Monday evening quite a number of cars loaded with people left Wainwright to aid in the search, and it was a real relief to receive word of the finding of the boy, which news came to town about nine o'clock on Tuesday morning.

Mr. Loe Wilson was calling for the cream on Thursday in a dandy new Ford truck.

THRESHING YIELDS SHOW WIDE VARIATION

With cutting general and threshing begun in the Prairie Provinces, indications are that wheat yields will show wide variation. In some districts yields will be fair to good, but crops over extensive areas are a total failure, owing to prolonged heat and drought. Coarse grains in general are a poor crop and pastures are badly burnt. In Quebec prospects continue good for a generally satisfactory harvest, apples being an exception. In Ontario dry weather adversely affected the prospects. Yields of most crops and the prospect of recent rains have been beneficial. The soil has been so parched that more moisture is required. In the Maritime Provinces the harvesting of an excellent hay crop has been completed and the outlook for other crops is encouraging. In British Columbia the quality and yield of most crops will be well up to average.

In Alberta harvesting is now general. The crop in the northwest and the north central sections is fair to good and in other districts is fair to poor. Late crop and feed conditions were improved slightly in the past week from scattered snows and cooler weather. The beet crop has been adversely affected by an irrigation water shortage. In Saskatchewan cutting is progressing favourably and threshing has begun in some sections. Reports indicate the yield generally will be light. In the southern and western districts a large percentage of the acreage will not be harvested and a critical feed shortage has developed. In Manitoba cutting is well advanced and threshing is becoming general. A wide variation in wheat yields is reported. Late crops are threatened by damage from rust. Coarse grains have suffered seriously from heat and drought and pastures generally are in poor condition.

HEATH

St. Patrick's W.A. will meet on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Bartlett, Jr.

Miss Thelma Vail of Wainwright is spending a few days with Mrs. Art Patterson.

The Prosperity Certificates are freely circulating in this district. Mr. Herman Scheller of Macklin, Sask., spent a few days at Artn Lake, fishing, last week.

Miss Lucille L'Hercux of Vegreville is visiting her brother Mr. Bill L'Hercux.

Miss Lillian Kuhl of Edmonton was a guest at the home of Miss Elsie Ford last week.

Miss Ella Ebbens has returned to her home near Wainwright after having spent the past month visiting with Mrs. Davis, Jr.

AMONG THE OLD-TIMERS"REMINISCENCES OF OTHER DAYS"

TEN YEARS AGO
Mr. J. Marshall of Peegan had the misfortune to lose his barn and harnage in a fire last week. We understand that no insurance was carried.

The formation of a permanent advisory dairy council for the province was announced by Hon. Geo. Hoadley, minister of agriculture, this week. This council would represent all the varied interests of the dairy industry.

Mr. P. D. Laird is around again after being seriously ill for the past month.

The first load of rye of the season was delivered to the Security elevator at Heath by Reg. Bean on Saturday. It graded 2 C.W. and weighed 59 pounds to the bushel.

A new school is being erected north of the new bridge at Sheepskin Flats. It is to be called triangle S.D.

Supplies are being purchased for the pipe line, etc., and work is to commence at once on the construction of a gas-heating system for the town. It is hoped to have everything complete for use in the early fall. Miss Florence Torgy who is vacationing with her brother in Nova Scotia was successful in winning the bronze medal in life-saving at the Acadia ladies' seminary in Wolfville, N.S.

Municipalized school districts instead of the present system of self-run school boards was the theme of an address given by Mr. Geo. W. Gorman, chief inspector of schools for the province, at a recent convention in Edmonton. The inspector stated that under an scheme of municipalization, there would be a centralized collection of school taxes and he thought that one tax collecting authority would be preferable to the present system. A general levy would then be made for educational purposes.

Mr. Harry Lewis was under the doctor's care when he received a severe kick in the stomach by a horse last week at Greenshields.

Mr. L. Leduc is building a new residence on his farm at Greenshields.

AUBURNDALE

The Social Credit Group held their regular meeting in the Autumn Leaf school on Monday evening, August 10th. Mr. Robert Fair wrote to Mr. Little the secretary that he expected to be in the district at that date and offered to address the meeting if his plans did not interfere with the crops, and as nearly everybody is now busy cutting crops it was decided to have Mr. Fair hold a meeting at a later date.

The secretary urged the members to be prepared for Social Credit Registration day, the date of which will be set by the government in the near future and announced in the newspapers and over the radio. He

TWENTY YEARS AGO
Mrs. Rosbitt and family left last week for an extended visit with relatives in Chicago.

A change has been made in the arrangements of the local G.T.P. offices necessitating the removal of the offices of the chief dispatcher and the B. & B. department to Edmonton. This means quite a loss to Wainwright as several prominent townsmen are employed in the above named offices.

Miss Hazel Brunker has been added to the staff of the local branch of the Union bank.

Among those who have begun to cut grain is Mr. Ed. Faulhauser. At the week-end he drove his binder in to a beautiful 80-acre field of wheat in which neither rust nor smut was noticeable.

Mr. V. E. Graham and family left last week for a holiday trip to Miss. and other States points.

The Town Council has granted the Agricultural Society the sum of $250.00 to ensure the success of the coming fair.

The new farmers' co-operative elevator which is being erected is fast nearing completion and the promoters hope to have it ready to handle this season's crop.

The local telephone office has increased the staff by taking on Miss Hazel Ward.

A device has been brought to the attention of the farmers that will clean the grain as it threshes it. This is a Monitor cleaner with an attached motor to run it. It is expected to save the farmers quite a lot of money that they have paid out for shipping the grain uncleaned.

read the instructions regarding the covenant which the citizens were to enter into with the government, emphasizing the point that no citizen need sign the covenant if he or she did not wish to. The next regular meeting will be held September 14th.

Over fifty children have been attending vacation school at the church this year. Mr. Anderson, the student minister has had his hands full but he enjoys having the children there.

Everybody is now busy cutting wheat here. The straw is short and hard to make bundles of but the wheat is a fair quality and should average about ten bushels to the acre. The higher price of wheat this year it is hoped will make up somewhat for the shortage of grain caused by the drought.

Dr. J. J. Knowles will hold an inoculation clinic in the Autumn Leaf school on August 18th when it is expected about forty children will be inoculated against diphtheria and other diseases.

Miss Susie Walker was a guest of Miss Bernice Fraser for a few days last week.

Mr. Jack Taylor of Wainwright has just finished plastering the inside of Mr. J. J. Elyben's new home. Mr. Charles Johnson has also had his new home plastered by Mr. Taylor.

Mr. Alex Smith of Wilmere has just returned home after spending a week or more at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cleland while he attended vacation school at the Auburndale church.

Miss Agnes Cleland who is on the staff of the Vermilion College spent last week-end at the home of her parents here. The recent heavy rains we have had have been welcomed by most people even those farmers who have wheat cut and in stacks. The rain will do much good to the root crops, late grain and green feed.

Mr. Magnus will hold his next religious service in the Autumn Leaf school on Sunday evening, August 23rd. Everybody will be very welcome.

Texas Guns

By L. P. HOLMES

SYNOPSIS... Silas Spelle, high-handed, low-principled cattle baron, is out to smash the local bank and force foreclosure on the small ranchers of the Kansas desert country to that he can seize their range lands. He is opposed by Ed. Starbuck, president of the Cattleman's Bank, and by San Juan Delevan, prominent rancher who has been crippled by a fall from his horse. Johnny Clehe and his partner, Tex Whiggle, are cowpunchers employed by San Juan Delevan to fight the rustlers and protect his interests.

"He's on top of the bunkhouse," yelled Johnny. "I'm gonna be set for him next shot. An' Jim, fer God's sake take a new position. They got yuh figgered."

The old cattleman swore but made no move to push himself to another point. It was Romny who darted up and drew her father away, in spite of his protests.

At the window corner Johnny met, his lips in a compressed line, his eyes fixed unwaveringly on the top of the bunkhouse. Suddenly he stiffened and showed the muzzle of his rifle through a shattered pane of glass. His keen glance had caught sight of a slight movement on that distant ridgepole. The movement continued and grew into the shape of a long, black gun barrel which was being shoved over and trained on the ranchhouse. Johnny swung his sights into line, drawing a fine bead just above the threatening barrel. Cautiously the upper half of a barred head showed. Johnny held his breath, centered his bead and pressed the trigger.

Half the body of a man tumbled into view, then dropped from sight. The big Sharps rifle teetered on the ridge pole for a moment then tipped over and slid halfway down the roof, where it stuck and head, in plain view of the exultant Johnny.

"That's one cannon spiked. I got him, Jim. An' the big gun's in the plain sight on the roof where the rest can't get it."

Johnny's triumph was short lived. Just as Spelle's cohorts, driven to madness by the sight of another casualty on their side, opened up in fury from all angles. Doc McMurdo started to circle from Delevan's side to Johnny. He went down, just opposite the window, falling at full length on his face. There was a bullet hole just above his left ear and one in the side of his neck. He was dead on his feet.

At her father's side Romny sagged in a near faint. Delevan swore helplessly. Johnny, white and harsh, crouched over and dragged the body into a dark corner. Then, without a word he padded back to his window corner and settled down to his watching. In that position darkness found them.

There comes a time in every man's life when minutes are hours and hours untold ones. When suspense whips the nerve centers taut and harsh and sets muscles hard and unyielding. At these times the veneer of civilization melts away and pure savagery rears its head. And if the suspense endures without breaking, the animal madness grows until danger and hand to hand conflict are to be welcomed with open arms. If only Tex were here. Johnny gulped. "Ain't I been wishin' an' prayin' the same thing," he muttered hoarsely. "God—yes, if'n Tex was here he'd lick Spelle's whole damn outfit single-handed. Good ole Tex—he's like a dad to me."

"I know. He's wonderful. With his clear old eyes and funny, quirky smile. Yet I feel that he can be terrible if he's aroused."

Long they crouched there in the dark. Two children, and just a wee bit afraid of a stark, murder-filled world.

Long after, Jim Delevan stirred in his chair and cleared his throat. "Romny," he called softly. "Where are yuh, child?"

"She's here, Jim," answered Johnny. "She's asleep on my shoulder. Pore little kid, she's havin' a tough time of it."

"I'm glad she's asleep. She likes yuh, son."

Johnny's arm tightened around the sleeping girl. She stirred and mumbled a little, like an infant plagued with dreams.

The air was stark with the chill of early morning. It seemed to Johnny that the murk outside was thinning somewhat. Dawn was not very far away. Then the storm broke.

From all sides of the house a torrent of yells shattered the silence. And with them came the rumble and thunder of shots. There was a clatter of boots upon the porch and something crashed at one wide porch window, tearing away sash and splintered remnants of glass in a flurry of blows. Then through the opening catapulted a dark, malignant figure, a splitting gun in each hand.

Like a flash Johnny lowered Romny to the floor and leaped away, careless of movement and noise, just so he could draw that ruthless fire from the girl. He stumbled against a chair and it skittered and crashed in front of him. Immediately those flaming guns winked and flared towards him.

Something struck him low on the left side, burning across his ribs like a white hot iron. It spun him half about but he steadied and drove two quick shots in return, holding low down and between the crimson

He ended up finally, half lying, half sitting against the wall. Romny crouched beside him, her arm about him fiercely. She was sobbing and praying at the same time.

Apparently he stiffened. "Listen," he gasped. "Listen—I hear 'em! Hear 'em! Texas guns—Texas guns! Hear 'em roar will yuh? It's Tex—it's Tex. The ole gray wolf's come to look after his cub. Now Spelle—damn yuh—here's where yuh—get—yuh—needn't."

So saying, Johnny slung forward, silent—dead.

Late on the following afternoon, Johnny opened a pair of lackluster eyes and stared about him. Immediately a slow grin wreathed his pale face. Stopping above him was the rare lizard visage of his old partner.

"Tex," murmured Johnny. "Tex—yuh came in time. I knew it was yuh. I heard 'em roar—those Texas guns."

"Yuh danged young hellion," murmured Tex. "Yuh didn't leave much fer Utah an' me to finish."

"But yuh got Spelle?" protested Johnny.

"None—not us. Yuh got him."

"I did! I did! I did!"

"Son, yuh shore did. He was layin' just outside that front window on the porch with a .45 between his eyes. An' that ole four-fingered half-breed son o' his was the two gun man yuh downed in the room. Ole Jim told me all about it."

"How about yuh—did yuh get them cattle?" asked Johnny.

"They danged right what I did. We had a little trouble findin' 'em but we finally located 'em in a little valley about fifty miles north o' the railroad. The Box D iron was blotted on every cracker, turned into a Gridiron. We cornered the paper who claimed to own 'em an' a little questionin' got him so tangled up he didn't know what his own name was. Utah an' Al an' me declared a showdown an' the rustler boss an' his gang elected to shoot it out. It was their mistake. We got the whole lot from one o' them what was due to cash. He came clean. Like we figgered, Spelle was behind the whole deal. Takin' it by an' all it's been quite some storm. But the air's cleaned up an' we can settle down to honest cattle raisin' now."

"Yuh shore like that fine, fine," murmured Johnny. "I'm dead sick o' fightin'. I done had enough rummin' around. I want to settle down an' grow fat an' sprout a beard."

"Yuh?" Tex's eyes were twinkling. "I reckon somebody else will have something to say about that—the beard an' the bay window, I mean. Women are touchy about sech things."

"Huh," grunted Johnny. "Think yuh're smart don't yuh?"

"None just a prophet. That's all. An' I'll be back here now but I'm right," Johnny smiled up at him.

"Yuh'd win the bet, ole timer. Where is she?"

"Out on the porch with her dad. I'll send her in."

Tex swayed the length of the hall, his eyes fixed on the girl, glowing in his eyes. Romny Delevan watched his approach curiously and was rewarded by having Tex catch her by both shoulders and plant a resounding, shameless kiss on one velvety cheek.

"Why—what?" stammered the bewildered girl.

"Now don't get excited, young'un," chuckled Tex. "I'm jes salutin' the bride to be. Ain't mad are yuh?"

Romny blushed furiously. "Who told yuh that?" she demanded.

"Nobody. Shucks I got eyes an' I? By the way, that young cub o' mine wants to see yuh. Pronto now—don't keep yore future husband waitin'."

Romny hurried to the doorway, where she halted and looked back. Of a sudden she dangled rosy.

"Tex," she called. "Yuh win. They're good kids, Tex," rumbled Delevan finally.

"None better nowhere," nodded Tex. "Jim we're danged lucky men."

"Yore damn right, Tex. I hope there'll be little fellows later on, little pugny fellows to tug an' paw us ole wolves around."

"They will be, Jim. Them kids o' ours are the real quill."

Another long silence.

"Happy?" rumbled Delevan.

"As hell," sighed Tex. "This is the end of the trail fer me. Right here I stay. Right here I sit an' watch the days peter out down there."

NOVEL AND NIFTY COLD DRINKS

A great deal of liquid is demanded by the human body in hot weather—enough to replace that lost through perspiration. Watch the playing children as they scamper back and forth to the water pail or the bowl of homemade punch or lemonade and you will realize that this is so.

Fruit juices of all kinds—filled with healthful minerals and vitamins—blend readily into many delicious, economical and healthful drinks that can easily be made at home. Tomato juice, raspberry syrup, maraschino cherries and even Worcestershire sauce may be added to give tang and zip to these modern summer beverages.

Something like canned Hawaiian pineapple juice may be selected as a base for dozens of delicious drinks. This is rich in food acids and natural fruit sugars. It has a final alkaline reaction in the body which tends to offset the effect of acid reaction foods. It's just another modern delicacy that our parents and grandparents could not enjoy.

Here are three delicious summer drinks that may be prepared quickly if you have the pineapple juice and a few other simple ingredients on hand. Try them when the mercury is high and bodies cry for liquid nourishment.

Punch Ideal
2 cups Hawaiian pineapple juice
1/2 cup grapefruit juice
1/2 cup raspberry syrup
1 cup ginger ale
Sliced orange and maraschino cherries

Crushed Ice
Mix fruit juices and raspberry syrup and chill in refrigerator. If fresh raspberry juice is used, add 3 (tblsp. sugar). When ready to serve add ginger ale, sliced fruit, and ice. 6 to 7 servings.

Pineapple Fizz
1 1/2 cups Hawaiian pineapple juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 egg white
3 drops Worcestershire sauce
Crushed ice
2 bottles ginger ale (12 oz. size)
Place all ingredients except ginger ale in shaker, leaving enough room for a thorough shaking. Add chilled ginger ale and serve in tall thin glasses.

If this beverage is not sweet enough, add a little sugar syrup. (To prepare syrup, heat together equal parts of sugar and water until sugar is dissolved; cool before using). 6 servings.

Golden Desert
As though in salute a single golden ray bathed them in its radiance, softening the grim, sculptured harshness of their features to one of mellowed contentment.

THE END

Delight Cocktail
2 cups Hawaiian pineapple juice
1 cup tomato juice
Juice of 2 lemons
Mix the juices. Chill and shake well before serving. 6 servings.

Apple Meringue with Brazil Nuts
4-5 apples
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup boiling water
1 tablespoon orange rind
2 tablespoons orange juice
1/2 cup white wine
3 egg whites
1 cup ground Brazil nuts

Pare, quarter and core apples. Cut each quarter into thirds. Strain one cup of sugar and water together in shallow pan over fire until sugar is dissolved. Add orange rind and juice and boil five minutes. Cook half the apples at a time in the syrup until they are transparent. Arrange in shallow baking dish, add wine. Beat egg whites until stiff, fold in remaining sugar and ground Brazil nuts and bake in a slow oven, 300 degrees F., fifteen to twenty minutes, until meringue is light brown.

Molasses Cookies
1-1 1/2 cups (1 can) sweetened condensed milk
1/2 cup molasses
1/2 cup chopped raisins
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
2 1/2 cups graham cracker crumbs
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon allspice
1/2 teaspoon salt

Thoroughly blend sweetened condensed milk and molasses. Add graham cracker crumbs, raisins, walnuts, spices and salt to mixture, blending thoroughly. Drop by spoonfuls on buttered baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 10 minutes or until brown. Remove from pan at once. Makes about 48.

Chocolate Butter Frosting
4 tablespoons butter
2 cups sifted confectioner's sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted

3 tablespoons milk (about)
Cream butter; add part of sugar gradually, blending after each addition. Add vanilla, dash of salt, and chocolate and mix well. Add remaining sugar alternately with milk, until of right consistency to spread. Beat after each addition until smooth. Makes enough frosting to cover tops of two 9-inch layers, or top and sides of 8x8x2-inch cake, or about 2 dozen cup cakes.

Cantaloupe Meringue Salad Hawaiian
4 cups cantaloupe mash
2 cups Hawaiian pineapple juice
1 tablespoon gelatin
Salt and white pepper

Lemon Dressing
1/2 cup lemon juice
1 1/2 cups olive oil
Salt, pepper and sugar to taste

Use soft cantaloupe, remove seeds and rinds, put through the meat grinder. Drain pulp in a fine sieve.

Season to taste. Soak the gelatin in 1/4 cup pineapple juice and dissolve over hot water. Add balance of pineapple juice, cool, and add the pulp. Mold, chill, and when hard serve on a bed of crisp lettuce with Lemon Dressing. 8 to 10 servings.

BRAN MUFFINS
(Makes 14 dozen Muffins)
1 1/2 cup butter
1/4 cup sugar
2 tablespoons molasses
2 eggs
1 cup milk
2 cups Quaker flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 tablespoon salt
2 1/2 cups Quaker Natural Bran
1 cup raisins

Method—Cream the butter; add sugar. Cream thoroughly together. Beat eggs; add molasses and milk. Add to butter and sugar mixture. Add bran and raisins. Then flour, baking powder and salt, sifted together. Bake in well-greased muffin pans in hot oven about 425 degrees F. Reduce to 375 degrees F. after 10 minutes.

THE PROPAGANDA GAME (F.C.)
Propaganda campaigns are now much in evidence. And the editors of our newspapers are the victims. They are besieged. From morning until night. With requests. For free publicity—First for one thing. Then for another. But all to make money. For some interests. For which these campaigns are organized. We wonder. If the promoters ever think. What is to sustain a newspaper. If it gives away its space. For nothing?

Approximately 25,000,000 tons of limestone are used annually in the United States, chiefly in the smelting of iron ores.

arms. Thus felt Johnny Clehe as midnight approached. The house was in utter blackness seemingly much deeper than the opaque veil which hovers over the world without. And the Box D ranchhouse had become a box of ghosts now. Human bodies had no substance in that stygian, acrid gloom. Only human voices existed, low-pitched, anger-laden voices.

Only when Romny crept onto to Johnny's side with a cup of coffee which Chang had managed to brew by some celestial teleremennin, did he realize fully again that he was not alone in a mad, black, stark world.

Romny crouched close beside him, her cheek resting against his shoulder much as would that of a frightened, bewildered and unutterably worried child.

"Pore little kid," murmured Johnny. He put his freed arm about her shoulders and she relaxed and rested there.

Presently she stirred. "Johnny," she whispered. "I'm afraid. They are going to rush the house soon. I know it. I feel it. And I'm afraid."

area of flame which spat at him. There was a cough, a gurgle and the thud of a falling body.

"Johnny," bawled Delevan. "Yuh got him—yuh got him!"

In the rear of the house Pink Crosby's Winchester was creaking in steady cadence, while outside the yells had doubled in ferocity and the gunfire rolled to a scattering, sustained roar.

There came the rustle of skirts and Romny's voice, fearful and broken carried through the dark.

"Johnny—dad—where are you?"

"We're all right child," boomed Delevan. "Yuh keep down—down—yuh hear. Lay on the floor."

But Romny did nothing of the kind. She stumbled through the blackness until her hands rested on Johnny. She felt the warm stickiness of blood running down his side.

"Johnny!" she gasped. "Yuh're hurt, yuh're hurt! Oh—dad—he's falling!"

Johnny was not exactly falling but he was slumping slowly downward, his shoulders against the wall.

"I'm alright," he muttered hoarsely. "A'right, just a little dizzy. A little dizzy."

This Week in Washington

The old-age pension question comes to the fore again as a result, partly, of the convention of the Townsend plan advocates in Cleveland, and partly of Gov. Landon's acceptance speech at Topeka. There are really three old age pension plans under public consideration in the United States at the present time. They are:

1. The Townsend Plan for a straight pension of $200 a month for every person over 60 years old regardless of need.

2. The system now in effect in many states, and available to every state which wants to take advantage of this provision of the Social Security Act, namely, of providing a pension of not less than $30 a month for every needy person over 65 years old.

3. The old age benefit provision of the Social Security Act, which is an annuity insurance plan, to which workers in certain occupations and their employers are to contribute to a fund administered from Washington to provide for retirement pensions at the age of 65.

A Permanent Fixture
Washington has not yet recovered from its surprise at the apparent strength of the Townsend plan movement as indicated by the enthusiasm at the Cleveland convention. That the Townsend plan is utterly impracticable is the opinion of most economic authorities; that it is politically potentially powerful is conceded by every political expert. The old age pension idea has taken possession of an apparently increasing proportion of the American people.

Gov. Landon's pronouncement on old age pensions was an endorsement of the present plan of Federal cooperation with the states to take care of the needy aged, to which he added the promise to make the Social Security Act workable in its other aspects.

The old age insurance benefit and the unemployment insurance features of the Social Security Act have been under critical examination for a year now and considerable concern is expressed over the possibility of administering these phases of the law from Washington.

Washington forecasters are in agreement, however, that whether Mr. Roosevelt is re-elected or Mr. Landon takes his place, some kind of an old age pension system, at least for every elderly person in need, is a permanent fixture in the American system from now on.

Landon's Acceptance
Naturally, political comment on Gov. Landon's acceptance speech rang from enthusiastic endorsement to equally enthusiastic denunciation according to the political temperament of the commentators. The point upon which the opposition fire is focused is what he said about the rights of labor to organize. His declaration that, if elected, he would use his official power as far as possible to guarantee to workers the right to belong to any union or no union, as they individually chose, either a company union, a craft union, or an industrial union, "without interference or coercion from any source" is the sore spot with organized labor.

Labor organizations do not like the intimation that the power of government will not be placed behind them in their efforts to organize workers. Mr. Landon's acceptance of the company union system of organization is also not relished by labor leaders.

How far this may have the effect of further alienating the labor vote is a good deal of an open question. One of the shrewdest political analysts here points out that 80 per cent of organized labor is already safely in the Roosevelt camp and that Mr. Landon's remarks may have alienated another five per cent.

Just what this strength amounts to and how effective it may be in determining the result of the election is close and doubtful states is something upon which nobody cares to make a definite prediction.

Civil Service Reform
The action of President Roosevelt in placing all postmasters under the competitive civil service system is being interpreted. Republican commentators point to it as an effort to insure permanency in office of the large number of politically appointed Democratic postmasters now on the job. Democratic spokesmen cite this action as proof of the sincerity of Mr. Roosevelt's desire to take the administrative functions of government out of party politics. Pure and nonpartisan civil service reformers are naturally pleased at winning at least a partial victory. They point out, however, that this has not been brought about by an act of Congress, but by an executive order, which any future President can revoke at will.

What the Civil Service Reform League is seeking is a law of Congress extending the classified civil service to include all postmasters. Such a law seemed very close to enactment at the last session of Congress but failed to pass.

Robinson-Patman Act
Washington is still trying to figure the probable effects of the Robinson-Patman Act. It is in essence an anti-trust law reaching farther down the line and with more teeth in it than any previous legislation having for its purpose the regulation of business.

Reports from all the wheat-growing regions of the world are giving the Department of Agriculture some concern over the possibility of a real wheat shortage. This year's drought, added to the curtailment of production, has resulted in reducing the food production of the United States. Drought conditions elsewhere have also resulted in a short wheat crop. The outlook is distinctly for higher prices to consumers for all food stuffs.

France governed the territory embracing the state of Michigan from the time of its discovery in 1610 until 1763, when it was ceded to Great Britain. The area did not come into the possession of the United States until July 11, 1796.

The estimated length of the great wall of China, including all known spurs, curves and loops, is said to be 2,500 miles. It has 25,000 watchtowers built in the wall.

World rubber shipments in 1934 totaled 1,010,000 tons and exceeded those of all previous years.

SUMMER COLDS

So many people wonder why there should be such things as summer colds. Colds are associated with windy blasts and driving sleet, yet we get colds on the hottest days in summer and often find such harder to shake than winter colds. Why should this be?

We must first remember that the so-called "cold" is, in essence, a battle between the heat of our skin and the cold of the air. It is a battle between the heat of our skin and the cold of the air. It is a battle between the heat of our skin and the cold of the air. It is a battle between the heat of our skin and the cold of the air.

In the summertime our resistance is lowered in a somewhat different way. Because of the heat our skin is very active; pores are open and the skin is moist. In our efforts to cool off we sit in a cool draughty place; it does not matter if that be beside an open office window, in a speeding motor car with the top down, or on a porch between dances—the effect is the same.

Unfortunately, this finds our skin unprepared. The sudden surface chilling upsets the heat regulating apparatus and before we know it, the way has been paved for another cold. Sudden chilling is not in itself dangerous to normal healthy individuals, provided a "reaction" is set up by vigorous exercise. In swimming the use of the arms and legs restores the circulation, automatically checked by the initial chill. In winter one is usually active on going outside, and, of course, the skin is usually protected. But in summertime we know that exercise means more heat so we choose the most draughty, therefore the most dangerous, place and do the worst possible thing—just sit.

A breeze does little if any harm if the skin is dry. Nor is there objection to a minimum of clothing in hot weather. We would probably be healthier with less clothing, but do the shedding when you are exercising, not when you are "cooling off." Summer colds last a long while, too, because we never give ourselves a chance to get completely over them. Without thinking we again sit in the open window, or seek the open road on a hot night and again the heat-regulating mechanism of the skin is upset.

THE EYES OF YOUR HOME

They're your window shades of course! How effectively they tell your neighbors just what type of person you are! Keep the eyes of your home sparkling, fresh and immaculate—buy first quality cloth window shades of firm, fine fabric (woven on a loom) and "processed" with oil paint. Then your window shades immediately become a decorative asset.

Good cloth window shades last five years and longer—they stand up under rainstorms and steam from kitchens and bathrooms without wrinkling. They diffuse light which is so important, particularly for bedrooms and nursery windows as a harsh light is hard on the eyes of the sleeper. They are made of good sturdy rollers and thus hang straight and true.

You can order shades in such lovely colors as cornflower blue, mignonette green, straw-colored honey, delicate tones of gray and cream-brown. Imagine what exquisite color combinations you can achieve with your curtains and draperies! Then too you can buy doctored shades—one outside tone for a "uniform front," to the street—the inside tone to match the color scheme of your room.

Look at your shades now! Are they clean? Are they smart in appearance and worthy of your taste? If they aren't buy cloth shades today.

Nancy Hart's HOME NEWS

The vogue for slenderizing fashions has caused a complete reversal in the rayon industry. As originally made, rayon was highly lustrous. This quality, at first deemed desirable, was later disliked by stylists. There was some question as to whether the scientists should turn toward the making of a yarn with the luster of silk or of a duller type. The former was decided upon and accomplished. Later, with the "slenderizing" craze, and the demand for chalky and even frosty surfaces (for dull fabrics tend to slenderize, while lustrous ones increase apparent size), rayon was made in extra dull varieties.

Cottage cheese mixed with any of the following makes delicious sandwiches: fillings: chopped parsley, chopped olives, pickles, horseradish, celery, chopped boiled ham, onions, dill pickles, or nuts. They go equally well on rye, graham or white breads.

Household Hint: The insides of milk bottles can be cleaned easily by adding table-spoon salt to a quart of vinegar and then pouring it in the bottle and shaking vigorously.

Daddy: "Lots of little boys I know would be glad to have that squash." Fuzzy: "Name ONE?"

★ . . . Hometowns Question Success

There is a certain little cross-roads hamlet which in all its history has produced just one famous man. A visitor parked his car in front of the general store one day and, having made a small purchase, sat down on the steps beside a grizzled old resident.

"Come from the East?" the veteran asked. "New York?" The visitor nodded.

"Ever heard of a fellow named Sam Smith?" "If you mean Dr. Samuel Smith," said the visitor, "why everybody has heard of him. He's one of the famous surgeons of the world."

"So they tell me, so they tell me," the old settler ruminated. "They tell me he has a private chauffeur and makes thousands of dollars a year. Can't hardly believe it, myself. Seems like there must be some mistake. People in New York ain't so smart as they're supposed to be. I guess, why, I knew Sam Smith when he used to run around here. He was a little fellow, but he was a good fellow, and he was a good fellow."

An interesting trait could be written about the astigmatism of the home town. It seldom can see the full stature of its famous son because its vision is blurred by memories of the insignificant boy. The Great Teacher went back to Nazareth "where he had been brought up." He had attracted crowds in Jerusalem, performed mighty works, but the hometown met him with a sneering skepticism. In Springfield, Illinois, there were stubborn folks who contended up to the very end that Abraham Lincoln was over-rated.

The home town answer, in most instances, has been one of doubt. The home town never can quite forget that it knew him when he used to have his pants held up by one suspender.

★ . . . Success in "Second" Mile

A sermon which sticks in my memory was preached from the text: "Whosoever shall come to me and will take up his cross and follow me, he will have life."

This seemingly absurd injunction, said the preacher, is actually the secret formula for successful living. Who is the man who gets ahead in business? It is he who, being compelled by the rules to travel the first mile—the mile from nine o'clock to five—voluntarily adds a second—the mile of over-the-top, extra thought, and added effort. Who are the couples who enjoy happy marriages? Those who, having sworn to travel the first compulsory mile of fidelity and financial support, add the second mile of thoughtfulness, tenderness, and mutual respect.

A friend had a very sick child, and his own physician, baffled and worried, resorted to calling in the most famous consultants in New York. The consultant is a quiet, assured man, well over sixty years of age, and it took him only a few minutes to make his diagnosis and prescribe a treatment under which the child began immediately to improve. My friend said to the doctor: "How in the world does he do it?" To which the doctor replied: "That man has had one of the best consulting practices in New York for twenty-five years. His annual income must have been around $100,000. But all that time, and right up to now, he sees patients only half a day. The afternoons he spends in the hospital, going from ward to ward, studying every case. The result is that where one of us sees a dozen cases of a certain type in a year, or even in a lifetime, he sees a thousand. Another man, having reached the heights of the profession, might have settled back and been content with his big fees. This man studies harder today than any one of us."

Travelling the first mile diligently, a man can make a living; it is the second mile that makes success.
